River School Architects Display Models

The entire class has been studying the history of the California Missions and the models of the fourteen different displays are the result of individual research done outside the classroom. Each is unique in method of construction, and all demonstrate imagination in the choice of materials employed. One child dug adobe from a river bank, one used sugar lumps for building blocks, another found red licorice made a fine roof while yet another preferred beans for tiles.

The models, which were on display at the Carmel Mission, are now being exhibited at the Community Room of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center and may be seen through tomorrow from 3 to 5 p.m.

Five-Day Camp Program Wins Trial By Slim Vote

Controversy over the outdoor camp and nature study program for elementary school students came to a conclusion at last night's Unified School Board meeting, which was attended by about 50 teachers and parents. The program was appproved by a 3-2 vote for a one-year trial on the basis of a new science program embracing pupils from the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades. Blanks, Bialek and Sassoon voted "yes," while Newton and Neill voted the negative. Superintendent Medill Bair expressed himself as against the program.

Dr. John Davis, a resident professor at the Hastings Natural History Reservation at Jamesburg, which is a department of the University of California, spoke at eloquent length in favor of a studied one-year trial, and was joined by a number of Science teachers who were very emphatic in their contentions that the program was beneficial.

The five-day camp-out is in the Santa Cruz mountain area at Redwood Glen Camp, under the guidance of three Science teachers, during the school year.

Other matters discussed, outside of routine business, included a review of the preliminary plans for the proposed District office building to house administration facilities, which is to be constructed on grounds at the entrance to the new Junior High School at the mouth of Carmel Valley. Architect Keeble was authorized to proceed with more detailed plans for the facility.

In the matter of adopting a school calendar for 1965-66, some discussion was brought forward on the school holidays, such as Admission Day, Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays. It was noted that these events would be better observed by in-school programs rather than out-of-school holidays. No action was taken.

Considerable argument centered around the Kindergarten program which is being developed mainly to give assistance to those children exhibiting tendencies to move ahead faster than others. Also the matter of summer school and its objectives came under fire. No final action in either matter was obtained. More on this School Board meeting in next issue.

The Rhyming Philosopher

By Harry W. Fletcher

No. 94

Somebody built a granite road,
Somebody bridged a canyon's girth;
Even the house where I abode,
Somebody built before my birth.

The ship, the train, the car, the plane
I ride, were made for future use.
And later generations gain
From what we in our turn produce.

Since time began, this has been so—
Each generation plans upon
The heritage for those we know
Will follow after we are gone.

This is the plan; these are the rules—
We build again what we received—
The bridges and the roads and schools—
The past and future interweaved.

Thus daily we detract or add,
Regardless of our conscious trend.
What's done today, for good or bad,
Affects somebody in the end.

Letter To Editor

January 29, 1965

Mrs. Marjory Lloyd, Editor
Carmel Pine Cone
Dear Mrs. Lloyd:

The February 16 Monterey Peninsula College bond issue is NOT for the purchase of land. Any such interpretation is entirely erroneous.

The requirements for the bond of $4,712,000 have been carefully and specifically spelled out by the Board. The bond is for urgently needed classrooms, laboratories, faculty offices and student learning areas.

As required by law, Education Code Section 21701 was fully quoted in announcing the bond proposal. The Board of Trustees of Monterey Peninsula College have taken formal official action and are committed NOT to use any of this bond money to purchase land.

Sincerely,

Mark J. Raggett, President

Voters To Decide Future Of MPC At Polls Tuesday

By Harry Fletcher

Next Tuesday, February 16, voters of the Monterey Peninsula Junior College District will be trooping to the polling places to vote on the M.P.C. bond election. The bond issue is for $4,712,000, to which will be added matching funds from State and Federal sources in the amount of $1,588,373.00. The total amount is to be spent in construction of new buildings to take care of the rapidly increasing enrollment.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Those eligible to cast their ballots are registered voters in the Monterey Elementary and High School Districts, and Carmel Unified School District, the Pacific Grove Unified School District and the Marina Elementary School District. Registered voters of Fort Ord are also eligible.

The pressing need for the bond issue at this time, as stated by M.P.C. authorities, is that with an already overcrowded campus, there is no room for the 68% increase expected by 1970, the present inadequacy of the temporary war-time barracks buildings, and the necessity to broaden the curriculum. Moreover, because of the closing doors in the four-year colleges and universities, a heavier burden is being shunted off on to the junior colleges.

It was further stated that unless additional facilities are not built to house the influx of more and more students, students living in this area would be forced to travel to other colleges. However, the Monterey Peninsula College District would have to pay for them, according to state law, and this amounts to spending the same amount of money to provide buildings and facilities in other junior college districts. Since free junior college education is guaranteed by state law, an area which cannot provide facilities for its students is taxed to pay the costs of its students who attend other junior colleges. Its taxpayers are billed for the cost of instruction and transportation, plus $300 per student for use of buildings and equipment. The estimated cost to the taxpayers over the next 15 years, if we don't provide for our own students on M.P.C., would be $4,500,000, in addition to paying the costs of instruction and transportation. And this cost would continue upward. Thus, it has been pointed out, it just doesn't make sense not to provide the money with which to build our own buildings instead of building up the facilities of some other college district.

If voters approve the proposed bond issue for expansion of facilities at Monterey Peninsula College, this money can be kept at home and will be sufficient to finance construction of our own junior college. Additionally, it should be noted that surveys show that the community would lose almost one and one-half million dollars per year in lost purchasing power if 1,000 students were sent to other districts.

With the successful passage of the bond issue, it will be possible to not only accommodate the projected enrollment from this area and expand the offerings in the transfer program, but it will be possible to increase the technical-vocational program. The need for expansion in this area of the curriculum was strongly emphasized by the Citizens' Committee to Study Monterey Peninsula College. Faculty and administrative

What could be more fitting? The very first copy of our 50th anniversary edition rolled off the press and right into the arms of Mrs. Phyllis Appleton, who, as everybody knows, is the daughter of the man who printed the very first copy of the very first edition.

Bayless started it with that 30 year old check of his. By now the Bank of America is so sick of wiseacre phone calls, I guess I won't ask them to cash my Confederate $200 bill, after all.

During last week's medical convention two doctors were overheard as they walked down Ocean Avenue past shop after shop with sale signs in their windows. "Whee!" said one, "Remind me not to tell my wife about this town!"

Can you rock the baby? Walk the dog? Do round the world? Break away? Loop the loop? Sleep it? Well, practically half the kids at Sunset can. Mrs. Janice de Amaral, recreational director, is practicing with them at noon recess in preparation for the Pepsi Cola sponsored Side Winder contest. (There, there, calm yourself. A Side Winder is a yo-yo.) It's at Sunset on the 27th and there'll be prizes for everybody. This year we're not going on to the regional contest at Santa Cruz, Mrs. de Amaral says, because the State champion will be there and he can do all this stuff with both hands. It wouldn't be fair to us guys who're just catching on to how to Side that darn Winder, see?

To me, the star of Tuesday night's Monterey County Symphony's concert was Rolf Storseth, first cellist. His Haydn solo, especially, was—well, sheer music. Sitting there basking in the warmth of his talent, I was reminded of the remark one of our town's most delightful ladies made on hearing Yehudi Menuhin. "You know, he plays so well it's a pleasure just to listen to him!"

Carmel's stores — and those of every other hamlet, town and city in the nation, no doubt—have gone red on account of you know who come February 14. There are red cupids, red tulips, red dresses, ties, shirts, red stuffed toys and red hearts by the hundreds. The most popular Valentine remembrances, I'm told by our merchants, are candy and flowers with perfume and jewelry next in favor.

Valentine Day started out as Lupercalia, a Roman lovers' festival in honor of Juno, goddess of marriage, and Pan, god of nature. It was real pagan whop-de-doo, so when the Christians came along they had to find some way to clean it up. They had a priest named Valentinus who was always befriending and helping the martyrs during their persecution under Emperor Claudius II. Well, befriending and helping martyrs was against the law in those days, so Claudius cut off his head. And what do you know? The execution took place on Lupercalia Day, giving the Church a made to order saint to substitute as patron of the festival.

While the poor priest was awaiting his execution, he befriended somebody else—the jailor's daughter. He cured her blindness and she brought him extra rations of mush and they became real chums. When he went, he left her a farewell note signed "From your Valentine"—and there you have it, the 3rd century beginning of a 20th century billion dollar business.

In England they've observed the holiday since the early 15th century, probably because of Chaucer's talking so much about birds' pairing off on St. Valentine's Day, and they originated the saying about wearing your heart on your sleeve. After choosing their valentines by drawing names the young men wore the slips of paper with their ladies' names on their sleeves and presented them with gifts.

Gradually the sending of greeting cards replaced gift giving. During the Civil War in America, Valentine Day was as enthusiastically celebrated as Christmas and valentines were marvelous to behold. Ribbon, lace, feathers, mother of pearl, pressed flowers, sea shells and even semi-precious gems adorned the sentimental messages. Some of today's valentines are equally fine. "Smart," clever ones are trying to take over, but people who really care send the other kind. Which reminds me, there was a painting in Marlinde von Ruhs' show at the concert Tuesday which was practically a valentine in itself. An exquisite young girl in sweet, misty tones with, to one side, something in French which I decided meant "Tomorrow, day after tomorrow, always —us." Wouldn't you like to receive that from your Valentine?

I love any kind of a valentine, even my first one. It was a magnolia petal with "I love you" written on it in brown fingernailed letters and signed "M.B.E." It took me three lovely breathless days to find out M.B.E. was my stinky, old, little sister.

Birthday Surprise

Quite by accident, Mrs. Herbert Liese found herself with the makings of a bacchanalian revel on her hands Friday evening when she tried to surprise her husband with a cocktail party on his birthday.

Frantic, whispered phone calls were made and received when the chilled champagne, previously ordered for pick up by one of the guests, failed to materialize. As guests began to appear, she recklessly phoned a friend to BRING CHAMPAGNE, cold or hot! No sooner had he appeared with lukewarm bottles than a duplicate order arrived from the beverage store, properly chilled. Mr. Liese was not only surprised but overwhelmed by his wife's generosity, and from all reports it was a perfectly splendid birthday celebration.

A June wedding is planned for Miss Joan Brooks Wallace and Herbert Wendell Myers, whose engagement has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Florence Kling Wallace of Des Moines, Iowa. Herbert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Myers of Carmel.

Joan attended school in Des Moines, where she was the National Merit Scholarship winner from Roosevelt High School and the recipient of many other honors. She is now a senior music major at Stanford.

Her fiance is an honor graduate of Monterey Peninsula College, holds a B.A. in music from Stanford and will receive his M.A. in music from Stanford in June. He is also an honor graduate of Carmel High School and was the winner of the first scholarship awarded by the American Federation of Musicians at its 1960 tri-county contest. He is a life member of Alpha Gamma Sigma honor society.

Sharing a profound interest in music, both young people plan to continue studies in this area, specializing in Performance Practices of Early Music. Joan will be working for a master's degree, and Herb for his doctorate in this field. He frequently performs on the harpsichord or recorder, both here and at Stanford.

Blakeman Family Increases

Rebecca Ruth Blakeman's arrival was two weeks beyond the predicted date and almost every pupil at Sunset School was on pins and needles awaiting the event—and just about as excited as their teacher and Rebecca's father, Donald Blakeman.

The new baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fenton of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Blakeman of Laguna Hills. Her maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Martin, are residents of Van Zandt, Washington.

Blacks Say Goodbye

Farewells are in order for Mrs. Arthur H. Black and her children, who will leave a week from tomorrow to join Colonel Black (USA ret.), who is now assistant director of operations for the network division of Radio Liberty. Between planning, packing and trying to fit in social engagements planned in honor of the various members of the family, it's a busy time at their home.

While in Germany, Arthur Jr., now a student at Monterey Peninsula College, will attend either the University of Maryland branch in Munich or the University of Munich. The Blacks' daughter, Marjorie Ann, ninth grade student at Carmel Junior High, will enter the school for dependents in Munich to finish the term and will later attend school in Switzerland.

Linda Thorngate Weds

A color scheme of delicate pinks and white was chosen for the wedding of Linda Thorngate to E. Wayne Cruzan which took place at the Church of the Wayfarer on January 30. This combination of pastel shades was repeated in the decor for the reception, held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. David Thorngate, which followed the ceremony.

Linda is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Thorngate IV of Pebble Beach, and the granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Thorngate Sr., also of Pebble Beach. She has four sisters, Mimi, Nancy, Phyllis and Annrae Thorngate.

Wayne, the son of Reverend and Mrs. Earl C. Cruzan of Westerly, Rhode Island, attended the University of Rhode Island and will graduate from Alfred University in New York in June.

Linda, too, attends Alfred University, where she is in her sophomore year. Following graduation, Wayne plans to teach math at a junior high in Canisteo, New York. Since Alfred University is nearby, Wayne will be able to continue his work toward a master's degree in mathematics.

The young couple were able to enjoy only a brief honeymoon, which they spent at the Cabana in Palo Alto, before returning to classes.

Reports For Business Women

Interesting reports were given by Mrs. Malcolm J. Setzer and Mrs. Shirley R. Turner at the February 2 meeting of the Carmel Business and Professional Women's Club. The two delegates attended the meetings of the Federation in January at the Hilton Inn in San Francisco to participate in the Winter conference, at which the theme stressed was the leadership among women in business and professional groups.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Beatrice Garrett and Phyllis Howard, hostesses for the evening.

Kiwanis Add New Look

The center divider of Junipero Street between Sixth and Ocean, denuded of trees for the recent widening of the street, has a fresh start on planting, thanks to the Kiwanis Club. The club not only donated the money for the purchase of lusty young trees, but planted them last Thursday with the help of City Forester Hugh Smith. Mayor Herbert Blanks was on hand to accept the gift to the city and to voice its thanks to the local service organization.

Bike Roadeo Winners

The annual Bike Roadeo spun along in great shape at Sunset School on January 30, with officials of the Carmel Kiwanis Club, the Carmel Police and the Carmel School District, co-sponsors of the event, on hand to judge the prowess of the entrants.

First place in the skill test was awarded to Buzz Cole; tying for second place were Stanley Shepard, Linda Scott, Jamie Thorn, and Nick Moore; for third, David Eagling, Ted Finley and Paul Fischbein.

The eight winners of the slow race were, in order, Beth Thompson, Louise Litts, David Korpi, Ward Gillette, Mike Miller, Tim Reed, Doug Snyder and Lynnda Zarp.

Bits Left Over From 50th Anniversary Issue

C. F. Devendorf And Frank Powers Credited As Original Founders Of Carmel As A Developed Community

BY DAISY BOSTICK

On a day in the early 1900's two men were walking along a trail in Pebble Beach which was then a country resort for the guests of the famous Hotel Del Monte. One of the men was Attorney Frank Powers of San Francisco and the other was James F. Devendorf, fresh from a subdivision project further north. They looked across a fern-studded canyon to a forest of pine and oak. It sloped gently down to a mile-long beach, glistening with white sand and pounded by towering waves of the Pacific.

One of the men said to the other, "There is the place," as he pointed across the canyon. They bought the property and started a village. It adjoined the Mission and took its name—Carmelo. And thus Carmel was born.

Trees were felled to make room for streets which accommodated horse-drawn vehicles and Devendorf's old Model T Ford. Trails were cut through the brush to guide the workmen to their homes. The population consisted of carpenters, plumbers, grocers, and—J. F. Devendorf — who had the combined energy of a platoon of soldiers. He was then—and ever after—affectionately called "Devvy." A four-horse stage met the train at Monterey bringing mail and an occasional visitor over the rocks and ruts of Carmel hill to the little village with a destiny.

In 1906 the earth shook and the flames roared and spread in San Francisco. Bohemia was gone. Writers and artists were homeless. They came — these refugees from the San Francisco holocaust. They bought their lots and built their cottages and set the pattern for the future of Carmel. But when the tourists left they told tall tales of the ways of the Carmelites and that brought more curiosity seekers many of whom were attached to modern ideas. The early settlers bitterly opposed it.

"The split grew. You were for paving or against it. And the Art versus Progress battle was on. The climax came when an election was held to vote on bonds for the paving of the main street, Ocean Avenue.

"The art element lost by a squeak and brought suit to declare the election invalid.

"A county judge was to decide on its legality and the day of decision arrived. The merchants closed their doors, artists put aside their canvases, authors covered typewriters and housewives turned off their oil stoves. Each side marshalled its forces and they traveled the 25 miles to Salinas, the county seat, to attend the hearing.

"The artists sat on one side of the courtroom and made insulting remarks to the opposition. Friends of paving glared at their opponents and hissed them at intervals.

"The session lasted all day. The best lawyers in the district were hired by the opposing sides. Argyll Campbell, attorney for the artists, called to the stand Carmel's one-man police force, Marshal August Englund, a good solid Swede and a terror to law-breakers. Gus did his policing on horseback and it was he who had posted the notices of the election.

"Gus confessed that he had tacked the notices on trees while seated on his horse, Billy, thus making it impossible for pedestrians to read them. When he was asked by Campbell how he had measured the distances between the notices as the law specified, he said,

"I yust counted Billy's steps."

"At this the artists hooted and the paving enthusiasts looked downcast and groaned. The judge pounded for order.

"Ocean Avenue had been frequently mentioned, for that street was the bone of contention. At the close of the day's session the judge rubbed his eyes and said plaintively,

"Will someone tell me what and where is Ocean Avenue?

"In a few days the judge made public his decision. The election was declared not valid. The militant artists had won.

"That night there was much rejoicing in the studios. Carmel was a dry town but much red wine found its way from Monterey and was consumed while quatrains of George Sterling's famous "Song of the Abalone" rang through the woods to an accompaniment of table pounding.

"Then came a sad day. The celebration had been premature.

"The town council passed an ordinance without calling for an election. The paving was laid. This marked the end of an era and the beginning of another. With the roads made passable for cars, hordes of curious tourists began to appear and Carmel was never again the same."

Gus had to ride back to town and get several helpers to convince the occupants that he was merely on a mission of good will and not seeking culprits.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

MEXICAN ADVENTURE

Just returned from a 6,000-mile automobile trip through Mexico, Pat and Dick Hartford, owners of the Village Store, Big Sur, speak of their vacation adventure with much enthusiasm and highest praise and appreciation of the people they met during their many weeks of travel.

The trip began during the Christmas holidays, when the Hartfords, their son Alex, Alex' friend Steve Parson, TV writer Jack Curtis and his wife, LaVon, all of Big Sur, started driving south in their two camper automobiles.

It took nine driving days, passing through what they call the "last frontier," through cactus forests, rugged mountains and fertile lands from Tijuana, Mexico all the way down Baja California to La Paz, a distance of 1,000 miles. Though the weather was pleasant for camping out, there had been a series of flash floods, this combined with very little up-keep on the road, made the "going pretty slow," and by the time the group reached La Paz they found they had averaged 10 miles an hour during the first part of their trip.

From La Paz, the Big Surites crossed the Gulf of California on an over-night Japanese ferry boat which carried 115 cars, had attractive cabins and a cafeteria-type dining facility. They were aboard New Year's Eve. Also aboard was a gracious and generous Mexican-Indian family who invited the travelers to celebrate the New Year's coming with them. Mrs. Hartford, in relating the happy evening, tells that she was very impressed with these people, who, though from humble origin, had educated their three daughters, who have each achieved an important and useful position in their country—one of the daughters is presently a school teacher, another a chemist.

After docking at Mazatlan, on the eastern edge of the Gulf, Alex Hartford and Steve Parson, both students at Carmel High School, flew home in time for reconvening of classes after the school vacation.

The Hartfords and Curtis continue on their trip to Guadalajara. At this point Mr. and Mrs. Curtis drove home to Big Sur and the Hartfords spent pleasant days going down through the ancient town of Morelia, to Oaxaca, noted for its pottery and weaving and on to Vera Cruz. Then followed a number of days in Mexico City then home via Durango, Sonora and Yuma, Arizona.

The Hartfords have made a number of trips to Mexico, and as on previous occasions, they observed that almost everyone has a dog, or dogs in Mexico, and almost everyone seems to have a rooster. Even in the heartof teeming Mexico City, the cocks begin to crow in the early hours. "But it is odd," says Mrs. Hartford, "I can only remember seeing one cat during the whole trip."

The vast coffee plantations, the number of new buildings, particularly schools, and the great forested areas were all of much interest. The Hartfords were impressed by the "neatness" of the forests. Every little branch and twig is picked up from beneath the trees and used, which gives each such area the appearance of a well kept park.

DON HARLAN'S MOVE

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harlan have recently moved to Livermore, in Northern California, where Mr. Harlan has taken over his new position as Foreman of the Maintenance Crew, Division of Highways station at Livermore. Before his transfer to the new location, Harlan was a member of the crew at the Willow Springs Maintenance Station located at Gorda on the Sur Coast.

FORMER RESIDENTS VISIT

Captain and Mrs. Donald J. Benson, former residents of the Sur Coast at Rocky Creek, spent last week as guests at Rancho Pequeno and during the time called upon their friends and former neighbors in the vicinity. The Bensons now live in Seattle, Washington, home port of Captain Benson's ship the SS Washington Mail. She and her sister ships, the SS Japan Mail and SS Philippines Mail are members of the American Mail Line fleet that have their regular ports of call in Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Formosa, The Philippines and Hong Kong. Throughout his years as a member of the Merchant Marine, Captain Benson has maintained an outstanding record of safety in the care of his crew and cargo during his countless voyages to the Far East.

Gerald M. Walker

Gerald M. Walker, husband of Mrs. Frances D. Walker, died Saturday in a local nursing home after a lengthy period of illness.

A native of Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he was born on August 30, 1890, Mr. Walker came to Carmel in 1948 following his retirement as advertising manager for the Caterpillar Tractor Company in Peoria, Illinois. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Walker leaves a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Walker Seeburger of Empire, Nevada, and two granddaughters.

Private family services were held this week in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, with the Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Zella S. Hammock

Miss Zella S. Hammock was found dead of natural causes on Saturday at her home, death having occurred two days earlier, according to the coroner's office.

Miss Hammock, who was born July 27, 1906, in Victor, Colorado, had been a resident for twenty years and was a long-time employee of the Carmel Post Office. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hammock, are residents of Milton-Freewater, Oregon. She is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Robert L. Norris of Milton-Freewater, Mrs. Ralph Diltz and Mrs. James Connolly of Denver; and two brothers, Major Louis Hammock, Salvation Army, of Salem, Oregon, and Edwin Hammock of Sacramento.

Funeral services and burial for Miss Hammock took place yesterday in Milton-Freewater. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Letter To Editor

Contrary to what most people think, somebody is doing something about the litter in the village over the weekends!

While we were walking home from the beach last Sunday, we saw the street at Fourth and San Antonio covered with newspapers, Sunday supplements and everything else. Regardless of the traffic, four young children, ages about eight to twelve were painstakingly picking up the papers and carting them away to the trash baskets. We heard them talking among themselves and criticizing the "visitors" who littered up "our pretty streets." We were able to identify three of them: Anthony and Christine and James Marsh, all of them residents of Carmel. We thank them and think the Pine Cone should thank them and we also look to the future with renewed hope.

Sincerely,
D. P. Medalie

DUO PIANISTS IN CONCERT AT PACIFIC GROVE

The two-piano team of Judith and Doris Lang will be presented as the next concert of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association tonight at 8:15 p.m., at the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium.

The team of teenage sisters has enjoyed a resounding success since their debut four years ago. They have had three appearances with the Mitch Miller TV show. The New York Times calls them "a pair of talented sisters who play with a great deal of dash and enthusiasm, possessed with already handsome technical equipment."

Attendance at the concert is limited to members of the Association, and members of similar associations.

Art News . . . .

The Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Arts is presenting Edgar Whitney, one of America's best known watercolorists, who will conduct a Workshop February 16, 17, 18 and 19. The morning sessions are 9 a.m. to noon and the afternoon sessions from 1 to 4 p.m. His workshop will be preceded by a lecture and demonstration February 15, 8 p.m. at the Fellowship Hall in the Church of the Wayfarer.

The "Mirror Technique" which he originated, and which is now widely used, has made it possible for watercolors to be demonstrated before large groups. Mr. Whitney, a member of the American Watercolor Society, is a contributing editor of American Artist magazine and author of the book "Watercolor: The Hows and Whys." For information and reservations, call AFA headquarters 624-2918.

Artist Jay Hannah, assisted by his wife Beth Hannah, will conduct a Children's Art Workshop for the Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Arts. It will be held Saturdays beginning February 27 through May 8. Grades 1 - 3 will meet from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and grades 4 - 6 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Classes will be limited to 12 children in each age group and acceptance will be on a first come, first served basis.

Each workshop session will try to provide a direct experience with an abstract visual principle. Special models will be built to show the elements of line, direction, shape, size, color and value. The younger child will simply be exposed to these visual models; his own work will be controlled only by the materials given to him in each class. The older children will have a similar exposure with a period of analysis by the children and then further experience with the materials. For further information and reservations, Call AFA headquarters, 624-2918.

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History has announced the opening of a special exhibition of watercolor paintings of "Weeds" by Mary Virginia Roberts of San Francisco. The artist specializes in life-size paintings of the common plants of the doorstep and roadside, arranging them in pleasing designs to show their unsuspected beauty of form and color. The thirty-five selected works have been painted within the past few months, and have not previously been shown in a museum. The exhibit will remain through February.

Among the artist's credits are exhibits at the San Francisco Hall of Flowers, the Los Angeles County Museum and the Chicago Museum of Natural History. The public is invited. The hours of the museum are 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. daily except Monday. The location is the corner of Forest and Central Avenues in Pacific Grove.

An exhibit of contemporary photographic expression at the George Eastman House, a museum of photographic processes in Rochester, New York, contains prints by seven Peninsula photographers headed by Ansel Adams and William Current of Carmel Highlands, and includes the work of Wynn Bullock and Richard Garrod of Monterey, Walter Chappel of Big Sur, and Brett Weston and the late Edward Weston of Carmel.

The exhibition, known as "Contemporary Photographs from the George Eastman House Collection, 1900-1904," will start a nation-wide tour after February 22 as part of the museum's traveling exhibitions program.

Included in the calendar of events recently released by the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Arts, with headquarters on Lincoln Street just south of Ocean Avenue, is the exhibit of etchings by Dennis Beall and John Ihle, Monday through March 10.

On Monday, at 8 p.m., there will be a lecture and demonstration by watercolorist Edgar Whitney, to be held in the Fellowship Hall of the Church of the Wayfarer. Commencing Tuesday Artist Whitney will conduct a workshop of eight sessions, the first classes meeting at the Red Cross headquarters, 467 Alvarado, Monterey.

Starting February 27 and continuing through May 8 each succeeding Saturday, Jay Hannah will conduct a workshop for children, limited to 12 in each age group.

Visitor From Mexico

When Senorita Carmen Guzman arrived recently from Chapala, Jalisco, she was delighted to be on hand in time to welcome the arrival of the first child of her close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gerardo Benavides. She was also honored to learn that she will be the godmother of Gerardo Martin, who was born at the Community Hospital on January 26.

Senorita Guzman, who has many local friends, is here for an indefinite visit as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel (Mike) Morales. Mr. Morales is the new baby's godfather.

Peter Osborne Wed

Dorothy Dana Lamborn and Lieutenant Peter Osborne, U.S. Air Force, were united in marriage on January 30 at the old Mission Santa Barbara, with the Reverend Benjamin R. Mariante, O.F.M., officiating.

Miss Lamborn was given in marriage by her father, Mr. William R. Lamborn of Santa Barbara, and her only attendant was Miss Jeanna Marie Yost. Guests were escorted to their seats by Francis Dane and Robert Lamborn, and Bruce Darling stood beside the groom.

For the reception which followed the ceremony, the bride's mother, Mrs. William Lamborn, chose the Montecito Country Club.

After a brief honeymoon, the newlyweds are in residence at Amarillo, Texas for ten weeks and will then move to Travis Air Force Base in California.

Dorothy attended the University of California at Santa Barbara, where she was affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Peter is the son of Colonel Robert E. Osborne, U.S. Air Force (ret.) of Carmel, and the late Mrs. Osborne. He graduated from Carmel High School in 1958 and from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1964.

All Saints' Program

To raise money for the four missions they are helping, members of the Saint Barnabas' Circle of All Saints' Church will have a luncheon and lecture next Thursday in the Parish Hall at Lincoln and Ninth.

The speaker, Mr. F. Douglas Tellwright, will have as his subject "A Basis for an Enduring Peace." Mr. Tellwright, former president of the Northern California Council of Churches and a trustee of Grace Cathedral, is the recently appointed chairman of the Carmel Red Cross Bloodmobile program.

Collection of clothing and toys for the mission children is a project of the ladies of the Circle, and they have "adopted" a child to whom they send Christmas gifts. Money is an ever present need for the continuance of their work.

The luncheon, to be served at 12 noon, is open to everyone at the modest price of $1.25 a person, and baby-sitting service will be available. For reservations, please phone the Parish office, 624-3883, or Miss Janet Greenwood, 624-2397, not later than Monday.

Jeannie Eagleton Married

Jeannie Eagleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Eagleton, was married to James W. Costello of Monterey at an informal ceremony on January 28 at Davis, where they are both students at the University of California. Jeannie and Jim met first at Monterey Peninsula College, where they graduated together in 1963.

Following their marriage, the young couple came to the Peninsula to visit their respective families and friends, and to receive their congratulations at a small reception at the home of the bride's parents on the evening of January 31.

The new Mrs. Costello is a history of art major in her junior year of college. She is the sister of, Johnnie and Julie Eagleton of Carmel and her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Eagleton, also of Carmel, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gaskill of Atlantic City, New Jersey. Claire Morris of Carmel is her aunt.

Jim, who will receive his degree in political science in June, is a member of one of Monterey's old families and the great-grandson of Mrs. Ross C. Sargent. His two grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Breinig and Mrs. Stuart Weill reside in Monterey and his paternal grandfather, F. D. Costello, in South Carver, Massachusetts. He is the brother of Mrs. James Seidule of Alexandria, Virginia; and of Julie, Joan, Peter and Michael Costello of Monterey.

studies over the past several years has underlined this need. Facilities would be provided for the development and expansion in the technical fields, both physical and biological, in the semi-professional fields of medicine and dentistry, in the business fields, in data processing, in the service fields of the hotel-motel and restaurant industry, in Police Science and Fire Service Science, to mention a few.

In addition to the expansion of the day program, it would permit an even wider variety of technical vocational offerings for employed persons who wish to attend the college in the evening to increase their skill on the job, to prepare for better positions or to avoid being "automated" out of work.

The question has been asked: why should parents of young children be concerned with expanding a junior college now? The answer is that permanent junior college facilities, constructed now, will assure parents of small children that the door to higher education will not be closed to their youngsters in the future. It is merely another way of saying "When your children are ready for college, will college be ready for them?"

Further, it is not generally realized that the four-year university will admit only those high school graduates who are in the top 12% of their graduating class. Many students cannot get into the universities because they have not had the required courses. And, in addition, many students are financially unable to afford the university or state college fees. Thus, it will be seen, the junior college serves a great need which reflects upon this community, and its ability and willingness to provide for its own.

Carmel Martin

With the death of Carmel Martin on January 31, the Peninsula and the entire County suffered the loss of a dedicated conservator of the area's heritage and scenic beauty. A respected lawyer, Mr. Martin was a community leader in numerous fields and a lifelong champion of city and county planning. He served on the Monterey County Planning Commission from 1924 to 1954 and was its chairman from 1930 to 1954. For 23 years he was a member and one time chairman of the Monterey High School Board of Trustees. The Carnegie Library was built during his chairmanship of the city Library Board in 1909-10.

Mr. Martin was born July 5, 1879 in the family home at what is now the Mission Ranch. He graduated from Colton Hall school in 1896 and later attended San Jose Normal (now San Jose State), the University of Santa Clara and the University of Michigan, where he earned his law degree. First a teacher, he later turned to the practice of law and in 1908 joined the firm of Treat and Hudson (now Hudson, Martin, Ferrante and Street). In 1911 he became the first Monterey mayor to be elected directly by the people.

He was a charter member of the Monterey Rotary club and a member of the Monterey Elks Lodge since 1903.

Mr. Martin is survived by his wife, Lydia Wahl Martin; a daughter, Ann Martin of Monterey; and four sons, Carmel, Jr., and Douglas, of Monterey; John, of Carmel; and Stewart, of Midland, Texas.

Family services for Mr. Martin were held on February 2 at the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, with the Reverend Paul J. Baird officiating. Inurnment followed in Cementerio El Encinal. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends so desiring may send memorial contributions to their favorite charities.

G. Ross Rede

Private family services were held last week in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea for Colonel G. Ross Rede (USA retired), who died January 30 after an illness of two months.

Colonel Rede, a resident of Carmel since the early '50s, was born in Rockford, Illinois April 30, 1896. He was a veteran of nearly 30 years' active service in the Army and retired in 1945, at which time he took a position with General Electric at Schenectady. With his wife, Eleanor, he later moved to Carmel.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Louise Davis of Baltimore, Maryland; a brother, Marion Rede of Clarksburg, West Virginia; and two grandchildren.

Following family services, inurnment took place in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Katherine E. Bond

Mrs. Katherine Elizabeth Bond, wife of the late Marshall G. Bond, died here last Wednesday following a brief hospitalization. She had been a resident for twelve years and made her home on Carmel Point.

Mrs. Bond, a native of Washington, D.C., was a member of the Casa Abrego Club and the Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association.

A daughter, Mrs. Jane Bond Rasor, resides in Mill Valley. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Elihu Guy Burritt of Carmel; two sisters, Miss Jane C. Burritt of Carmel and Mrs. Frances J. Allen of Greenwich, Connecticut; and four grandchildren.

Requiem mass for Mrs. Bond was celebrated Friday at Carmel Mission Basilica, and burial took place the same day in the Lemoore Cemetery. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in the memory of Mrs. Bond may do so to the Peninsula Visiting Nurse Trust Fund, 512 Pierce Street, Monterey.

Many Sports Events On Pebble Beach Calendar

The Point-to-Point race meeting and hunt at Pebble Beach, slated for February 13 and 14, is scheduled to start from Pebble Beach Stables, according to the recently issued sports calendar.

Other events of the near future are the Pebble Beach Invitational Skeet Shoot, March 27; the Concours d'Elegance, April 17; and the Spring Dressage competition, April 30.

Swallows Golf Tournament is set for June 11-13; and the California Amateur golf championships, June 21-27.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The dramatic account from the Book of Genesis telling how Joseph met the many challenges to his trust in God through the years will be heard in detail on Sunday at Christian Science churches in the Bible Lesson entitled "Soul."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (99:9): "Exalt the Lord our God, and worship at his holy hill; for the Lord our God is holy."

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will also be heard, and will include this: "Soul has infinite resources with which to bless mankind, and happiness would be more readily attained and would be more secure in our keeping, if sought in Soul" (p. 60).

CARMEL AMBULANCE CALLS

Cecil "Pop" Smith is improving rapidly and will soon be released from the Monterey Hospital, where he was taken by Red Cross ambulance on Sunday following a fainting spell.

The ambulance, operated by the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, responded also to three other emergency calls. Miss LaVaune Ziegler was admitted to Community Hospital early Sunday morning suffering from difficulty in breathing, apparently caused by a heart problem. She is reported to be recovering very well.

On Monday evening, Howard Roberts was taken to Community Hospital for attention to broken ribs and was thereafter released.

On Monday morning Kurt Stolley was treated at the emergency room of Community Hospital for a self-inflicted axe cut on a leg.
